“We can always choose to perceive things differently.
You can focus on what’s wrong in your life, or you can focus on what’s right.”

— Marianne Williamson
